WOMEN'S HEALTH CLINIC PROGRESS.

As we wrote in December, whenever a newborn baby arrives at the orphanage, it means a woman has died. MoM is building a medical centre which will save lives by providing free medical care for expectant mothers and training for village birth attendants.

Daniel reports: Throughout last week we worked on the courtyard. This week we are working on the main entrance. Work goes on seriously every day but there is much to do.

Two of the doctors who are willing to serve as volunteers have visited to see the ongoing project.

THE ONLINE STORE is a great success, thanks to so many who visit it and order food and diapers for the children. Check it out at Partners-in-Joy.org. We will keep the store open year round for people who enjoy ordering specific items for the children such as the bags of rice pictured here. Sending checks the traditional way is also much appreciated!

Sunset in Colorado

PiJ BOOKKEEPER IS MOVING! That's me! My husband and I are moving to Pueblo, Colorado to be near our daughter and son-in-law. I'm very glad that I'll be able to continue serving as bookkeeper. Sometimes technology really does help! We will send out the Pueblo address next month, but we will also keep the Duncanville address indefinitely, so don't worry about where to send your donations and correspondence. It will reach us whether you write to us in Pueblo or Duncanville.

Thank you for your prayers and support! Great is your reward in heaven!

For all Caroline's children,

Esther Nordman
