

If the Lord does not build the house, in vain do they labor that build it; If the Lord does not keep the city, in vain does the guard keep watch. Psalm 127:1

Courses

It is a source of great joy to be able to share the works that the Lord is doing in the indigenous community of Guanacaste. The presence and support of each person has been instrumental in sustaining our life and ministry in this place.

The courses on Baking, Sewing, and Tools for Sunday School Teachers received a positive response, generating a lot of interest among Cabécar students.

This is the second course that God allowed us to teach in the community, where trust, as a fundamental value, has been achieved and has allowed us to see the first results of what is shared.

The transformative impact

Sianeth is one of our pastry teachers. Three years ago, she took the course with Yorlenny, as she attends a church in the Bribri indigenous community.

When she received the course, Sianeth was a woman marked by a past of physical and verbal abuse. However, God restored her heart and the impact was so profound that she decided to dedicate her life to the service of indigenous communities alongside our organization.

During this course, Sianeth shared with the students her testimony and the story of Mary and Martha told in Luke 10:38-42. While recounting her experience, one of the students expressed her desire to leave her fears behind and move forward, showing how God continues to restore hearts.

Thanksgiving

- For God's goodness over our lives.
- Because it allows us to be emotional support for indigenous pastors.
- For each person who supports us in different ways.

Reasons for prayer

- For every student we have in the Cabécar indigenous community.
- For a pastor of the Bribri ethnic group who has thought about leaving his pastoral work.
- For our children Andy and Stephanie, may God always guide them in their spiritual lives.
- For Yorlenny and Manuel, may the Lord continue to give wisdom for work.
- For the future projects of the organization, may God direct and provide what is
