March 2023

Due to the uncertainties and delays surrounding the announcement of election results last month, Crystal and Tom postponed their planned return to Nigeria by 4 weeks. Then just three days before their rescheduled return on Sunday, March 26, they received an email saying that due to a one-day strike in Germany, their flight was cancelled! We were so disappointed!

Working with our friend at LH Travel Co., we tried to get a rescheduled flight, but were told that nothing was available for the rest of the month. We decided to wait through the weekend and if nothing was resolved, we would seek a refund and book with a different airline, as we really wanted to be together for our 4th anniversary on March 30.

Making the most of the unexpected delay, Crystal made an overnight trip down to a memorial service for a friend in Virginia on Saturday, only to be awoken at 6 am, Sunday morning by a text saying that their flight was rebooked for THAT DAY, and she had just 8 hours to drive back to PA, finish the last-minute packing, say good-bye to family, and get to the airport in Washington DC! It was crazy, but we made it!

We are so grateful for friends who prayed and a family that loves and serves—jumping into action at a moment's notice to make sure we got home. After 7 1/2 long months, we are finally together again!!
